

GUIDES · FALL

Fall Harvest

Apple picking, pumpkins, cider, and hayrides across the Hudson Valley, one good Saturday at a time.

FREE GUIDE

Devlin Foster
Hudson Valley Almanac
Fall 2026

Before you go

I started the Hudson Valley Almanac to make it easier to find the farms, stands, and makers close to home. Fall is when it earns its keep. This guide pulls every fall listing in the Almanac into one place: where to pick apples, find a pumpkin, get a cider donut, or take the kids on a hayride.

It lists 100 places across 17 counties, grouped by county so you can find the ones near you. Each one shows what it offers, its hours as the Almanac has them, and its website.

HAYRIDES & FUN

Please read this part. Fall hours change from week to week. Weather, crop timing, and the end of the season all move things around. This guide is a snapshot of the Almanac as of October 11, 2026. Check the farm's website or call before you drive out. If a listing says to call, that's what I mean.

Making a day of it

- Pick one place in the county you're in, then look at the others nearby. A lot of farms sit within a short drive of each other.
- Go early in the day, or on a weekday if you can. Weekend afternoons are usually the busiest.
- Ask what's ripe before you go. Apple varieties come in at different times, and what's ready this week may not be next week.
- For a longer drive with several stops, the Farm Trails guide on the Almanac lays out self-guided day trips through farm country.

How to read an entry

The small capital letters under each name say what the place offers, as listed in the Almanac. Hours are copied from the listing. A place may offer more than it says, or may have stopped offering something, which is one more reason to call.

A few things I left out

This guide is about farms and orchards you can visit. I left out breweries, cideries, and distilleries, because the Beverage Trails guide covers those. I also left out a few listings whose own websites showed they were closed or out of date.
