Farm Stands Open in Winter

Where to buy local when the stands close, and the farmers markets that stay open through the cold.

Hudson Valley Almanac

Winter 2026–27

Before you go

When the stands close up in November, a lot of people figure local food is done until spring. It isn't. Plenty of farms keep a stand or store open through the winter, and a good number of farmers markets just move indoors. I went through the Hudson Valley Almanac and pulled together every listing whose hours say it's open year-round, runs through winter, or stays open into December.

FARM STANDS & STORES OPEN YEAR-
ROUND

MARKETS THAT RUN THROUGH

OPEN INTO DECEMBER

Please read this part. Winter hours change more than any other time of year. Snow, holidays, and short days can all close a stand for a day or a week. This guide is a snapshot of the Almanac as of October 11, 2026. Check the farm's website or call before you drive out, especially for a self-serve stand or an indoor market that has moved.

What's in the guide

- Open year-round. Farm stands and farm stores whose hours say year-round or winter hours.
- Winter farmers markets. Markets that run all year, or that move indoors for the cold months.
- Open into December. Places that close for the winter but stay open through the holiday season.

A few tips

- Indoor winter markets often change location and schedule. Look at the hours line for where it moves.
- Self-serve stands usually run on the honor system. Cash is the safest thing to bring.
- What's available changes with the season, so ask what they have that week before you make the trip.
- Hours are copied from each listing. Where the Almanac has no hours, I've said to call.

What I left out

I left out places that are only online, only by appointment, or that just say "call." I also left out listings whose hours don't clearly say winter. If you know a stand that stays open and isn't here, tell me.
